Series Title: America In The 20th Century
Curriculum Area: Social Studies
Grades: 7-12
of Programs/Length: 9/30:00 minute programs

This landmark series documents in stunning detail the United States in the 20th century. Conceived and developed specifically for students, the standards-based series addresses traditional history as well as the needs of today's teachers and classrooms. The events and figures of the past century come to life through archival images, authentic recordings, and other primary source documents, while stunning graphics and engaging narration lend context and make history relevant. America's diversity is celebrated with spotlights on many individuals and groups who have impacted the 20th century. Thoughtfully organized into video chapters, each volume functions well as a full-length program or as focused support for specific study areas. The comprehensive teacher's guide includes black-line masters and is available online.
